"We are delighted that the public is turning out for this unique week-long competition that has brought some of the world's most talented classical pianists and singers to Los Angeles," said Donelle Dadigan, President of the José Iturbi Foundation. "It is thrilling to watch the world's upcoming, emerging talent engaged in a rigorous life-changing competition."

"In recognition of our shared mission to play a vital role in the early careers of young artists, and our commitment to musical excellence, the UCLA Department of Music is honored to welcome to our campus the Jose Iturbi International Music Competition," added Ian Krouse, Chairman of UCLA's Music Department.

Created in 1985 by Marion Seabury and Donelle Dadigan, The José Iturbi Foundation is a not-for-profit 501(c)(3) organization dedicated to continuing the legacy of José Iturbi, to fulfill his wish to make classical music accessible and enjoyable to people of all ages and walks of life, and to fulfill his desire of bringing to the public's attention today's greatest emerging talents and prize-winning musicians. The foundation's goal is to globally expand the passion for classical music through dynamic competition and compelling live performance.

One of the greatest concert pianists of his time, José Iturbi was a composer, conductor and performer of international acclaim who starred as himself in seven MGM musicals including "Anchors Away" (1945) starring Frank Sinatra and Gene Kelly. He was the first classical musician to receive a Gold Record representing record sales in excess of one million and a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame.
